“Challenges for Delivering Efficient and Effective Public Service”

Rationale:

“Asia’s population is growing old and projected to reach as many as 923 million by the middle of the 21st century. The number of population that was once was a great modality of development will soon become liabilities.”

Meanwhile, the Philippine government and bureaucracy’s today, have to deal with competing problems, such as environmental degradation, economic crises and demographic changes, that change the way bureaucrats interact with the politicians as well as with citizens. Compounding the issue, is the rapid growth of technology that has been followed up by governments across the world by invention and innovation in the delivery of public service.

In view of these, The GAAO members, as part of their continuing education to enhance their efficiency and effectiveness, would like to learn the best practices in Asia and pacific countries in responding to such challenges.

Objectives:

At the end of the institutional visit, the participants will be able to:

1. Conceptualize and recommend strategies and innovations to respond to challenges confronting the bureaucracy
2. Establish network to sustain the proposed innovations and strategies to decision makers in the bureaucracy.
3. Replicate the good practices in their own government agencies
4. Draft a re- entry plan to advocate their new learnings
5. Re -echo best practices to peers and staff in their own agencies
