Narrator 1: Boy

Narrator 2: Conductor

Narrator 3: Gang

---

Narrator 1: Once upon a time a little boy was having no fun and having no joy.

Narrator 2: He was lonely.

Narrator 3: He tried to have a dog; he tried to have a cat. But his mother wouldn't hear of that.

Narrator 2: They bring dirt into the house, she said.

Narrator 1: So the little boy at school and at home, always, always played alone. Until one day looking up to the sky he saw something flying high.

Boy: A red balloon!

Narrator 1: The streets of Paris brightened that day.

Narrator 2: And the little boy could laugh and play.

Narrator 3: He'd found a friend.

Boy: Guess I'll take my little red balloon to school.

Narrator 1: But school was so very far he had to take it on the street car.

Narrator 2: And the conductor said:

Conductor: "No dogs, no large packages and no balloons."

Narrator 2: He was mean.

Boy: Guess I'll walk and take my time, this balloon is a friend of mine. But I mustn't be late or they'll lock the gate and then I'll be in trouble with my teacher.
Narrator 2: Following right behind the boy.

Narrator 1: A gang of boys saw the balloon following the boy and he wasn't even holding it on a string.

Narrator 2: It was a strange sight all right!

Gang: We could take that balloon and teach it tricks! Oh, no! Let's break it with rocks or sticks!

Boy: (Speaking to the balloon) Come here!

Narrator 1: The boy said.

Narrator 2: And he grabbed and held on tight to the string.

Narrator 3: And suddenly the gang came from all directions and the boy ran to give his friend the balloon some protection.

Narrator 2: But the gang kept coming and the rock thrown first was the one that made the red balloon burst.

Boy: (To balloon) Don't die! Don't leave! Don't go anywhere! I'll try to get you some more air.

Gang: We got him!

Narrator 1: And do you know what happened?

Narrator 2: All the balloons in Paris that day. Loosened their strings and flew away.

Narrator 3: And they formed a line way up in the sky. And the little boy cried and asked:

Boy: "Why? That red balloon was my friend."

Narrator 1: But the ending is happy, The ending is bright.

Narrator 2: All the balloons in the sky

Narrator 3: Came to the boy's house that night

Narrator 3: To greet him in the morning.

THE LIVING MUSEUM AND LIBRARY
Established in 1957 by the late Atty. Fernando Salcedo-Bahao, the Children’s Museum and Library, Inc. (CMU) is a non-stock and non-profit foundation that works to promote the welfare and development of the country’s children and youth.

For 61 years, CMU has been contributing to the intellectual, social, and cultural growth of the Filipino youth through various services such as workshops, seminars, talent competitions, and scholarship grants. As an organization, CMU endeavors to respond to contemporary realities by initiating projects that raise the level of social awareness among the youth and inspire them to translate their ideals into constructive activities.

Moreover, CMU continues to build a library for, by, and about the youth. Seeing their potential for greatness, the organization collects and showcases their work and creations while they are young. In recognition of the commission and contribution to youth development, the Department of Education (DepED) consistently endorses CMU-sponsored projects and also has the support of business communities, government institutions, local and foreign NGOs, families and parents, and public and private schools across the country.

With the nation’s children and youth as its event beneficiaries, CMU pursues the following objectives:

- To establish and administer a library and museum to give a proper direction to the youth’s natural tendency to research and collect things;
- To discover the youth’s talents and motivate them into honing their gifts further;
- To develop critical thinking and creativity at an early age;
- To foster national and international friendship with other schools, and to enjoy the spirit of joy and giving;
- To train the youth to be good citizens and responsible learners to help mold their characters, and to encourage them to love and respect country, respect for its ideals, culture, traditions, and environment toward the attainment of Filipino nationalism.
