Department of Education
Antipolo City

Dear Dr. Baustista:

The Regional English Language Office under the Public Affairs Section of the U.S. Embassy in Manila is offering several Free Online Courses for English Language teachers nationwide in the form of MOOCs (Massive Open Online Course). Our office is committed to improving English language teaching quality through professional development opportunities for educators.

We would like to invite your school subject coordinators and teachers to join and participate in the Professional Development for Teacher Trainers MOOC that we are currently offering. This free five-week online course gives participants methods for creating, presenting, and evaluating effective teacher training workshops. This MOOC is provided by Arizona State University, as part of the American English (AE) E-Teacher Program, sponsored by the U.S. Department of State and administered by FHI 360. The course opens on October 15 and ends on November 19, 2018. Upon finishing this, the participants will receive a digital badge and certificate of completion from the U.S. Embassy in the Philippines. It is a great opportunity for teachers in the Philippines to take university level course offered by a U.S. academic institution free of charge.

The teacher-participants may work on the said online course after school hours and during weekends so as not to decrease their time-on-task during school hours.

For further details, please contact me or the program staffs below. We also invite you to like and follow our social media platforms for information and updates. Please feel free to share this opportunity with others in the English language teaching Field.

Thank you and we look forward to your teachers' participation.

Sincerely,

Ms. Rina A. Angeles
MOOC Coordinator
U.S. Embassy in the Philippines
